PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 24. The department of Conservation is advocating $1.00 angler's license fee for game fish—brook trout and black bass which is the department's measure to replace the long proposed angler's license law. Such a law is the latter would work undue hardships upon thousands of Michigan's fishermen who and re-creation in fishing for the general run of so-called non-game fice on M-17 remains undisputed—an thousands of Michigan's fishermen who find re-creation in fishing for the general run of so-called non-game fish. If the proposed measure finds worthy support among the members of the 1925 legislature and becomes a law, the coffers of the department will be enriched by about $300,000 per year, it is estimated.

Michigan game wardens are using about 12,000 feet of nets in the pursuit of gar fish, a deadly enemy to the fish the state is apending thousands of dollars annually in propagating and planting. Gar fishing only can be done with any degree of success in the warm months of May, June, July and August. This year has been about eight tons of gar fish removed from inland lakes. Farmers use these fish mainly for fertilizer; a few using them as hog feed. The thick tough them as hog feed. The thick tough much for even the veracious greediness of the hog. ### SOILING CROPS ARE REQUIRED FOR MILK

Because of a succession of dry summers in northeastern Minnesota it has become necessary to supplement persuapent pastures, if dairy cows are to be properly fed and the milli maintained in August just as butterfat prices start on the ascending scule, says M. J. Thompson, superintendent of the Northeast Experiment station of Minnesota university. Mr. Thompson believes this condi-tion should be anticipated when seeds are being ordered and crops planned.

Three things can be done to provide suminer succulence, he says 1. Sweet clover pasture. Not yet generally established; sow seed for

2. Summer sliage. Not wholly prac-tical since most farms with siles have winter capacity only and if there.

Is a carry-over much of it spoils. 3 Soiling crops, that is, crops cut green, hauled in and fed.

The last offers the cheapest and best-solution-of-the-problem," says Air Thompson . "Such crops require only a limited acreage. Fall sown eye is the first available in the sum-Oats, though somewhat later, offers the greatest range of seeding, inte April to late June and thus serves more need. Pens may be sown with it. Second crop sweet clover and later sunflowers (chopped) and corn all make excellent feed. Our herd consumes over 90 per cen of these feeds, so that waste is small. In this manner the milk flow is suscained and prolonged into the winter sigh price period."

Homemade Spray Mixture Helps Milk Production

Files on the cows in hot wenther often cut down the milk. A good fly spray, well put on, will-not only quiet the cows and help the milk run freely, but will also save the temper and Language of the milker.

A good spray for this purpose can be made a bome, according to the cow men of the New York Stat College of Agriculture at Ithaca. Use 41/2 quarts of coal tar dip; 41/2 quarts fish oil; 3 quarts coal off; 3 quarts whale oil and 1% quarts oil of tur. Dissolve 3 pounds of laun-ory soap in water, and the ingre-

Real Stories About Real Girls

She would never be without it; for if she makes an exception to the rule sometimes when she goes for a stroll in the woods or a drive along the country roads, she is sure to see just the picture she would like to have," the girl went on. "You see, I can sell any artistic scenes I can get to the city newspapers and to maga-zines. The publications devoted to outdoor sports, gardening, farming, best markets. The more unusual the scenes are, the more money they bring. I can always sell freak pictures to newspapers—a glant squash, or a po-tato that has 'the President's face' on

Her market is at home as well as abroad. The farmer who owns a the horse or cow, or who has built a new home may be a customer; he may like a view of the field hands harvesting a bumper crop. Or perhaps the local real estate man wants a photograph taken on some farm he handles; some imes railroad companies use her farm

Selling the home town yiews to for mer residents is one of the best methis by which the camera-girl may set her pictures. The boy away at col-lege would like a view of the old high school building, or of the baseball diamond or the football field. The girl at "finishing school" night like a view of the high school building, too. Other absent townspeople will be interested in the scenes which have the me sentimental appeal to them. she started her library. "You see," she explained, "I wanted to read them myself! But apparently there were other book lovers who felt as I did for the little venture wi a_success from the first."

The-girl-who-likes-books, and who decides to start a library in the town that hasn't any, may start out as "fre-browser" did-with-the library in a nearby city. Later, she may at in-tervals, add more books, which she buys outright. She will, by browsing gbout a bit, when in the city, find little second-hand book stails, where she mny pick-up-books at bargain prices.

Her first purchases should be standand fiction works, in about seventy five-cent editions.

She must remember the people who like non-fiction, too, and get for them books on such subjects as domestic science, gardening, and poultry raising. Above all, she must have plenty of books for that most voracious class of readers-the children.

The girl-librarian may decide to 'subscribe to a few of the popular magazines, and she could, by clubbing several, get special rates. She should sew them into heavy covers, always filing away carefully the old num bers for future reference. She will need to use a card system, or some other method of record keeping. She may decide to require each patron a dollar deposit to insure her against oss, or mutilation of books,

The girl who chooses this line of work will have the pleasure of asso-clation with the best books of the day, in addition to whatever financial reward she can make it pay her.

Milton's Reply

Frobably no one has ever called John Milton a wit, yet the great poet could on occasion make a stinging retort, as an old letter, recently discovered, shows. Charles II desired to meet Milton, and when he did he remarked bitterly:

"God hath punished you for your malice toward my father by taking away your eyesight,"

"Aye," said Milton, "but before I lost my eyes he lost his head."— Youth's Companion.

MARRIED LIFE

This is a story of married life—and—a wife's great love. But there's nothing humdrum about that same married life—far from it. There's ideal love in it, and jealousy and even murder. And at the end the triumph of a wife's love.

In the beginning Ellen Latimer is disclosed as a girl—pretty, poor and talented. Fate transports her to Paris studies and then to the luxurious life of wealthy New York. Fate marries her to an attractive fellow son of a rich man and talented as an artist. Fate gives her a as an artist. Fate gives her a devoted husband and the loys of love almost ideal. Then fate brings in a young and attractive stepmother, who maneuvers her way between husband and wife Her husband's father also believes the worst. Father accuses son and strikes him, ordering him from the house.

And then fate strikes its hardest blow. The father is found dead in his study under circum-stances that point to murder. The son is arrested for murder. The ted tightly around her hus

This is not only over and ove the federal income tax, but with no deduction of It is also over and above, and without deduction at any nt of income taxes imposed by other states applic to citizens of Michigan whose income is derived from such other states.

2. The amendment is launched, under an initiative provision, on the theory that members of the legislature cannot be trusted, that the whole subject must be placed beyond their control. It is an example, without a precedent in any state or the Union of complete distrust in our form of precentains government.

the time or place to discuss the wisdom of the adoption by Michigan of a state income tax system. It is enough at present to discuss this particua single word before election day in November, and if then adopted which cannot be changed in any respect without a vote of the people of the State at large. No matter how well the direct legislative representatires of the people, chosen by the voters to such, may be convinced of the importance such, may be convinced of the importance of some amendment or modification, no matter if all of them vote therefor, no matter how general the demandator the change, such representatives will have no power-to-act. It is one thing to convince a legislature or a tax-commission of the necessity of an amendment; it is another thing to convince a majority or all the ones of the state.

Fhose who prepared the amendment and got the necessary signatures to famich it, speak vaguely of "big-business," when endeavoring to justify it, of the legislature, in setting an income tax adopted against-its influence. Perhaps if they had shown in that con-nection some acquaintance with the experience of other states having state income tax laws, if they had proposed an income tax fair to all concerned, less features of double taxation, less injurious to the state -perhaps if they had taken care to show no self-bness in their aims, and had been more attentive to those things which preserve the prosperity of the state they might not have been defented in their efforts before the legislature. They are now proposing to take a short cut, to get the necessary votes in November by an appeal to selfishness and cupidity. Amendments to the constitution, history shows, have had results quite unexpected by their promoters.

3. The proposed amendment is an appeal to self-shreass and capality. All whose income is less than $4.000 are exempted. The idea is that all soil parsons will vote for the proposed amendment, in the belief that they are puring taxes on others and there-by benefitting themselves. Perhaps that fidea is cor-rect; but no one who studies the proposition, believes that There are among those whose income is less. than $4,000, many who know what is unfair or un-wise; who see beyond their noses; who know that all manufactured articles and all agricultural products pays all taxes that enter into the cost of production of such articles; who will think that a new tax of 1055 on all those engaged in selling clothing, groceries. houses, household necessities, etc., will be passed on to buyers. No farmer, for example thinks that if a special tax, collectible through him, is imposed on every bushel of wheat or other product he sends to-market, he would be the one-to-stand it finally.

4. If the idea that all with incomes below $3,000 will vote for the amendment is correct, on the other hand, it means class against class, which in itself is a bad thing for the State, and which raises a lot of questions. Doubtless some regard one who has an income in second of $1,000 are as a subset of $1 income in excess of $4,000 as a fit subject to tax specially, no matter whether he owns a home or not now what is the size of his family, nor how many outside of his immediate family he has to support, nor how far he is accustomed to contribute to churche and charitable organizations. In the proposed amend-ment the single man is treated the same as the man with a large family: the man with a home, the same as a man without a home; the generous man the same as the close man; and no distinction is made between "earned" and "unearned" income, which is now an important feature of the federal law. If the man who important feature of the federal law. If the man who is able to manage successfully a large industrial plant employing a large number of men and who is paid a salary commensurate with his ability, is taxed on that salary in Michigan, and in no other state, at the same rate as the man whose income is derived from wealth accumulated by others,—does anyone believe that the residents of Michigan of small incomes are not affected unfavorably by that state policy?

Proposal is Entirely too Arbitrary

5. It is un American. It did not originate with the chosen representatives of the people, but with self-appointed spokesmen, a coterie of individuals, doubtless well-intentioned, who tell farmers and "workingmen" that it will help them. It is quite apparent from the proposed amendment, as we shall see, that this solerie has given this big and difficult subject scanty study, that they are not accustomed to expressing their intentions as accurately as constitutional provisions intentions—as—accurately—as constitutional provisions demand, that the State may suffer from their proposal even though their intentions are honorable. It would be easy to convince any one of them,—assuming he is a fair-minded man,—that it should be changed in this or that particular; but, as stated a change in a single word is not possible before it is voted upon in November. Every income tax law ever passed, soon needed amendments to prevent evasion and injustice,—and although originally it was the work of the best writers and the best economic experts. Experience is and although originally it was the work of the best writers and the best economic experts. Experience is a great teacher. There is no kind of law which so often needs change to prevent evasion and injustice, as a tax law. The American way of dealing with such matters is to have hearings before a committee, before the thing is done; where all the principal in terests may be heard, where errors may be pointe out. That way is calculated to produce right results. The way adopted in this case is without precedent.

It Works Injustice and is Unwise 6. It is unjust. It is excessive in two important

(1) The exemptions are excessive, and they will react. States that have adopted income taxes, have learned that inness, exemptions are very limited, leaving the mass of the people interested in appropriations involving the use of tax money, extraogenes is usually the result.

(2) The percentages are excessive, unpre cedentedly so, and will be resented and resisted for that reason particularly. Those who proposed them did not understand their effect.

It is unjust because it is severe and is not discriminating. It imposes double taxation. The proposed tax includes income from securities held, and income from all kinds of property, real and personal; but the resurties and other property which underes the the securities and other property which produce the income are themselves left subject to taxation as real or personal property, as heretofore.

(a) Real estate taxes are now taking a large part of the net income from real estate; and clapping this proposed income tax on top of real estate taxes, and on top of the federal income tax, is bad business for a lot of people. It certainly means higher rents.

(b) The income from municipal bonds, for extor, a lot of people. It certainly means higher rents,
(b) The income from municipal bonds, for example, held by residents of Michigan, is not taxable

Millions of dollars of mortgages and bonds have paid this substitute for a personal tax upon them. Does any honest man believe it fair for the State to include this proposed income tax on the income from such mortgages and bonds? That would be dislicated in the part of the State; but there is nothing on this subject in the proposed amendment to provide otherwise. Its language would cover (d) The income of residents of Michigan from

State, many times only a few would have to do to escape it is to take up his residence in some other State, many times only a few miles away. Henry Ford and his family, for example could by this course escape about $1,000,000 of annual taxes under this amendment. His company, if this amendment applies to corporations, would first pay an annual tax rate of about $1,000,000 thereunder, but that would be followed by another tax on the dividends thereof, as income, against the family as stockholders. Does anyone believe that the farmer and the holders. Does anyone believe that the farmer and the laborer would not be affected unfavorably by this

Treats Resident Stockholders Unfairly

(e) From time out of mind, Michigan stocks owned by Tesidents of Michigan, have been non-taxable in Michigan as personal property. Every State follows the same rule. It is based on the fact that the corporation itself is taxed on all property in Michigan. This amendment would put an end in effect to that sahitary policy, by taxing the income therefrom consisting of dividends as well as the corporation itself. It will dividends, as well-as the corporation itself. It willsurely keep industries from locating in Michigan, unless their stockholders are non-residents of the State.

(I) The drafters of the proposed amendment overlooked the important difference between normal taxes and surtaxes, which is worked out intelligently in the federal law, but not given any consideration in the proposed amendment.

the proposed amendment. (g) Wisconsin has had an income tax for many years, and has long recognized the injustice of taxing both the income and the source of the income, and does not do so. Wisconsin's income tax is now generally accepted there; but it is felt by many intelligent observers that Wisconsin industries are suffering from that industries are moving to adjacen that new enterprises have been deterred from open-These features of the proposed amendment we surely injure Michigan and its citizens generally.

7. It is without precedent in all the states. 33 states have no income tax at all. A few states have moderate income tax laws. No other state exempts so many citizens. No other state starts at so high a many chizens. No other state starts at so high a percentage. No other state reaches a personage so high Wisconsin, under Laffoliene, has been experimenting with this subject many years. The max-imum state meaning tax there is air per cent. This proposed amendment would make Michigan's maximum

It will seriously affect all churches and cha 8. It will seriously affect all churches and cheritable institutions. It will close some of them. One may be seen so generous to such institutions, his taxes will be computed without any allowance therefor. Under the federal statute, a person has the benefit of charitable contributions, thereby encouraging them. Not so this proposed amendment.

It will seriously affect other benefactions. A man, may have a large family and may be the sole means of support of any number of other worthy and dependent persons. It would make no difference in the tax under this amendment.

May or May Not Include Michigan Corporations 2. Most business in Michigan is now done by corporations. The drafters of the amendment thought corporations. The dratters of the amendment thought they were using words which would make the tax a personal, individual tax; but as said above; they are not experienced in expressing their intentions in words. As drawn, it may tax Michigan corporations at the same sate as individuals. It applies to all "citizens and inhabitants." There is nothing in the Michigan constitution or laws taking it clear whether these do or do not include corporations. It is certain that for some purposes corporations are citizens and this amendment does not say individual citizens and inhabiamendment does not say individual citizens and inhabi amendment does not say indicidual citizens and inhabitants. It does not say anything indicating that it is confined to individuals. Religious and charitable corporations are not excepted. The legislature, composed of the chosen representatives of the people for most purposes, cannot interpret the constitution. It within it, all Michigan corporations must pay this tax in of the federal tax. On the other hand, it is said by some that corpora-tions are not covered by this amendment. If so, the tions are not covered by this amendment. If so, the o you want the corporations exempted from such a x? That is possible under this amendment.

(b) A non-resident corporation doing business in Michigan would clearly not be subject to the proposed tax, even though continuing to do business in Michigan. It is clearly an "inhabitant" of the State in which it was incorporated. Could its Michigan committee the subject to the proposed tax, even though the subject to the proposed tax, even the subject to the proposed tax, even the subject to the proposed tax to the proposed tax. petitors continue to do business?—What is to hinder their reincorporating under the laws of another state? (c) The law surely covers partners and partnerships. Do the people want to draw a distinction be-tween them and corporations, to the disadvantage of the former?

Would Cripple Michigan Industries 10 (a) It will be a loss to Michigan, industrially and otherwise. Why should an industry be established in Michigan it its tax law against corporations or their resident, stockholders is unfavorable, when other states impose no such tax? For the same reasons, why should an industry already located in Michigan stay here? There are many states which do not so tax. They are bidding for industries, 10% is a severe tax. It will often result in inability to pay dividends, the mainstay of all industries. The dividends when declared will immediately be taxable specially as mecome and thereby be substantially reduced. The procome and thereby be substantiany remects posed amendment would make no difference in respect of dividends, for example, which are only 2% of invested capital and those which are 40% thereof. That is not the way to get capital for new or old industries in Michigan. It would often cripple Michigan

Where do incomes below $4,000 originate? Do not many depend on thriving Michigan industries?

Would Drive People Out of Michigan

(b) There are thousands of individuals who now call themselves residents of Michigan, but who can just as well call themselves residents of some other state which does not tax its citizens both on income and the source of it. There are thousands of others who would need only to move a few miles the effect of this proposed amendment. The who would need only to move a few miles to c. ope the effect of this proposed amendment. Their declar-ation as to their residence will determine it. In this country no taxpayer need submit to excessive or unjust taxation by a state. He can and will move himhis property, out of the state (c) It is a perfectly clear, however, that this amendment would not apply to an individual non-resident of Michigan, even though all his income is derived from property in the State of Michigan.

People who are hard hit and feel that they are treated.

unjustly, will become non-residents. Will Cause Much Litigation

Litigation is inevitable. Heretofore income tax ws have been framed and amended so as to cover the multitude of questions that arise. When the words are not clear, what is wise and just is not the determining factor, but what is the meaning of the words used. Much legislation will be necessary. What are "net gains, profits and income"? The Michigan legislature has not the power to define a clause in the Michigan legislature has not the power to define a clause in the Michigan legislature has not the power to define a clause in the Michigan legislature has not the power to define a clause in the Michigan legislature has not the power to define a clause in the Michigan legislature. gan constitution and without special constitutional grant Usually "net incom it will have no such power. Does income include all-dividends, even of corporations which have already all dividends, even of corporations which have aiready paid all the taxes on its property and business? Does it include all interest on mortgages and bonds, even those which have paid the special tax? Does it include the rental value of a home owned? Does it include corporations? What corporations? Churches and charitable corporations? What rent paid for a home is a deduction? What depreciation? What proportion of a great number of expenditures usually amortized in annual installments? What contributions to charitable and religious organizations? tude of other question

Encourage Extravagance

Recourage Extravagance

12. It will encourage extravagance in State Government. It is proposed to raise millions in additional tax money. No department is put under new limitations. Real estate taxation is not limited; nor personal property taxes; nor special taxes. The result will inevitably be extravagance in state affairs. The majority of the people will presumably not be interested any longer in economy at Lansing. Enacting tax laws expressly to hit the "rich" is contrary to justice and equity, and any injustice done by a community always reacts on the doers, to their injury. The amendment is a clumsy attempt to cover in a few words, with few interests represented, a plan that involves a tariety of subjects, that requires many carefully drawn paragraphs to prevent injustice.

If the amendment is adopted, it would probably require 500 new employes of the State to attend to the handling of these taxes.

number 500 new employes of the State to attend to the handling of these taxes.

If a State income tax is what the people of Michigan want, there is a simpler way, a wiser way, a fairer way, a way that will cause less injury to the State, a way in harmony with the federal law and the needs of the delay, in particulars that prove unjust in practice.

CARELESSNESS AT GRADE CROSSINGS

Many Motorists Approach Track at Reckless Speed Without Looking.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

"Cheerful Thought for Today": A safety first bulletta informs us that agent thousand-motorists will be killed. Detachable Windshield during 1924 by steam and 'electric trains, not to mention some five thousand more to be struck down on the highways, investigation shows that one motorist out of every three is careless at grade crossings; approaching the 8-41-2-reckless-speed-and-with out taking due notice of oncoming trains. On one railroad alone during the past three years, 1,909 motor cars and trucks were wrecked at grade crossings. In 490 cases, or more than 20 per cent, the motorists deliberately ran into trains. In 122 instances motor cars plunged through the crossing gates. Nine crossing flagmen were

Why a Wheel Sometimes Is Mysteriously Locked

The owner who Is not vigilant and neglects the parts he does not see or which do not give trouble usuall finds some time that upon starting one of the wheels becomes locked even though the brake pedal and lever are This is due to the fact that there is so much play in the brake Unkage that when the hand brake lever is released it merely takes up the play, leaving the unlubricated mechanism set in holding position. This happened recently and a ham-mer had to be used to loosen the brake mechanism.
